

Kim White, Ph.D., MSN, PHCNS-BC, RN
Associate Professor

Educational History

Degree	Institution	Completion
Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.)	Barry University	2005
Masters of Science in Nursing (MSN)	Southern Illinois University Edwardsville	1999
Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN)	University of Illinois-Springfield	1991

Teaching Interests/focus

Dr. White teaches population health, ethics, leadership, professionalism, healthcare trends, and nursing preceptorship in the BSN degree program.

Clinical Interests/focus

Dr. White is a Public/Community Health Clinical Nurse Specialist. She has had experience in geriatrics, rehabilitation, neurosurgery, emergency department, management (as a manager, DON, VP of Patient Care Services, and Director), disability case management, school nurse, primary care, and public health. Practice with populations and in primary care nurse-managed clinic is her special interest.

Research Interests/focus

Her research interests include childhood lead poisoning risk reduction and community-based approaches to chronic diseases. An additional focus of her research has been interprofessional approaches to primary care.