Jeanne Siegel, PhD, ARNP, FNP-BC

Dr. Siegel received her undergraduate degree in nursing from Emory University. She graduated from the University of Miami (UM) with a master's degree as a Family Nurse Practitioner (FNP) in 2001. While at UM she found her love for teaching and continued on to earn her PhD in Nursing.

Associate Professor Siegel continues to work as an FNP and is full time faculty at the Ron and Kathy Assaf College of Nursing. During her long career she has spent most of her time in intensive care units, dialysis, and other high acuity areas as a manager and educator.

Dr. Siegel's research background includes studies, presentations and publications. Her research areas of interest consist of: Adaptation, Childhood Obesity, Nursing Leadership, Infection Control, Pressure Ulcer Prevention, and Hand Hygiene Compliance. She is currently working on chapters about creative teaching strategies and writing test items for a new book to help clinical nurses transition into educational roles.
