

Ron and Kathy Assaf College of Nursing- Miami

Theressa R. Brahim, DNP, ARNP, MS, MSN

Dr. Theressa Robinson Brahim received her Bachelor of Science in Nursing from Florida State University. She obtained a Master of Science in Human Resources Administration and Management from St. Thomas University, a Master of Science in Nursing from Barry University and an Advanced Registered Nurse Practitioner degree from Florida International University. Her Doctorate of Nursing Practice was obtained from the University of Miami.

Her background and work experience includes working as a cardiac intensive care nurse. She was employed at South Florida State Hospital as a psychiatric nurse. Employed at that facility, she assumed many responsibilities and roles in several departments and services such as Forensic Services, Family Intervention and Substance Abuse Programs, Clinic Nurse, Electroconvulsive Therapy Nurse and Nurse Educator. She later accepted a position at Miami Dade College as a Professor of Nursing. As a professor at Miami Dade College, she provided instructions in psychiatric nursing and in obstetrical nursing and served on several college wide committees.

Dr. Brahim has practiced as an Advanced Psychiatric Registered Nurse Practitioner in outpatient and inpatient settings and in private psychiatric office settings. In these settings, she provides therapeutic counseling, psychotherapy, individual and family therapy, group therapy, and medication management for clients with varies mental health issues.

Dr. Brahim's focus of interest is "Violence assessment and prevention in Children and Adolescents." She is developing a violence prevention program for utilization in school systems. Dr. Brahim holds the position of Assistant Professor at Nova Southeastern University Ron and Kathy Assaf College of Nursing.