

College of Nursing-Fort Lauderdale

Denise Howard, DNP, MSN, RN

Dr. Denise Howard is a graduate of Jackson Memorial Hospital School of Nursing. Dr. Howard received her BSN, MSN in Nursing Education, and Doctorate in Nursing Practice at Nova Southeastern University (NSU). Dr. Howard's dissertation investigated Role Expectations and Job Functions of the Dermatology Nurse.

Dr. Howard has been part of the College of Nursing Program since 2005 as a mentor, advisor, and instructor in the RN to BSN/MSN Program. Currently she is the program director for the RN to BSN/MSN programs. As part of Dr. Howard's Masters Education degree, she piloted her online Student Success Seminar (SSS), that is now offered all incoming registered nurses (RNs) who return to the academic environment to assist with their success within the first semester of classes. Dr. Howard's nursing background spans over 30 years and includes, cardiology, home health care, geriatrics and dermatology.

Dr. Howard is a Charter Member of NSU's Sigma Theta Tau Nursing Honor Society, Golden Key Honor Society and Delta Epsilon Honor Society. Interests include: reading, biking, and traveling.