

College of Nursing-Fort Lauderdale

Luvencia Connor, MSN, RN

Luvencia Connor is an Assistant Professor in the undergraduate program at the Nova Southeastern University College of Nursing. She obtained her Bachelor's degree in nursing from the University of the Virgin Islands, and her Master of Science degree in nursing from the University of Phoenix. At present, she is pursuing a Doctor of Education degree at the Fischler School of Education at Nova Southeastern University.

Luvencia has an extensive clinical background in maternal-child. Her research interest centers on sickle cell disease, utilizing simulation to enhance learning, and empowering students through simulation and reflection.

After several years of functioning as an adjunct faculty member, Luvencia joined the ranks of the College of Nursing faculty full time. Her main teaching responsibilities are in the undergraduate program. Luvencia also functions as a faculty advisor and currently serves as chair of the Curriculum Council.